

VOTING PLACES.
Registrar Wilson has announced the city Polling Places as follows:
First Precinct—Exposition building, between Fifth and Sixth South and Sixth and Seventh East.
Second Precinct—Shill's hall, corner of Second West and Fourth South.
Third Precinct—Old Sixteenth ward schoolhouse, corner Second North and Fourth West Streets.
Fourth Precinct—Barrington schoolhouse, corner of H and Third South.
Fifth Precinct—Nicholson building, corner of Third East and Second South streets.

The presiding judges of each poll, both state and territorial, will place call at E. W. Wilson's office, No. 15 West Second South for ballot envelopes, Monday afternoon.

Be Careful With Envelopes.
To the Editor of The Herald.

For the information of voters it should be known that in this city at each poll there will be two ballot boxes. One to receive the state ticket and one to receive the territorial and municipal ticket.

All state tickets must be placed in blue envelopes and delivered to the presiding judge at the state ballot box.
All territorial and municipal tickets must be placed in buff or white envelopes and delivered to the presiding judge at the territorial ballot box.
Otherwise if they are put in wrong envelopes or wrong boxes they will not be counted.

The election will be conducted as if there were two elections and persons entitled to vote should remember that in order to vote for both state and territorial and municipal the above must be strictly followed.—V. E. BLAIR.

BRIEF AND BREEZY.

At 6 a. m. yesterday, the thermometer registered 52 at noon 55 and at 6 p. m. 47, the minimum temperature being 38 and the maximum 55.

The funeral of the wife of Deputy Sheriff Roberts took place yesterday at 10 o'clock. The services were held in the Latter-day Saints meeting house. Elder Hull and Bishop Miller were the principal speakers and the services were very impressive. Captain Gibbs was in attendance as the representative of Sheriff Hardy and the Salt Lake deputies.

Abstracts furnished, titles insured and 5 per cent paid on deposits by Utah Title Insurance and Trust company, 106 Main street.

COAL.

D. J. Sharp handles all kinds of coal, coke and charcoal. Office No. 423 South Main street. Telephone No. 73.

Utah Commercial and Savings Bank.
General banking business; pays 5 per cent on deposits. E. Armstrong, president; W. Madison, vice-president; J. E. Jennings, cashier. 24 E. 1st South St.

DR. CHARLES PINCKNEY BOUGH,
Late of Butte, Montana. Office in Atlas Block. Telephone 629.

C. S. Martin sells the best coal, the cleanest coal, the cheapest coal. Office under McCormick's building.

Trilby, Up to Date.
Svengali struck the Laird with a Little Billie, whereupon Trilby gave Zouzou Taffy, 15c a pound, from Kollitz Kandy Kitchen, 60 Main street.

Will Clean Free of Charge.
Furs cleaned for two weeks only absolutely free, from October 27. Bring your furs and tell your friends about it. Mehery the furrier, Knutsford.

Like Paper on the Wall.
They fit, Wilson Bros' shirts, all sizes and sleeve lengths. BROWN, TERRY & WOODRUFF CO., 142 Main St.

Try O'Connor's Bouquet Cigar.
It is a good thing. Push it along. White House Drug Store. Five cents.

DIAMOND COAL.
The Diamond Coal is 25 per cent better than any other coal in the market for the furnace and domestic purposes.

J. W. WHITEHEAD, Jr., Agent.
Telephone 608, 10 West 2d South.

The Original Producers
Of best work on earth on shirts, collars, cuffs, handkerchiefs, etc.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY.
Telephone 192, 142 Main St.

Dr. Tillman fills teeth without pain.
Teeth without plates a specialty; 22 and 24, over Walker Bros. & Fyler's store.

WEBER COAL COMPANY.
Sell coal mined by the Ontario S. M. company, owners of the Wasatch and Crisman mines, Coalville, Utah. Also sell Rock Springs, Castle Gate, Pleasant Valley and Anthracite coals. Clean coal and full weight guaranteed.

Yard 221 South Third West street.
Telephone No. 144. Office 160 Main street. Telephone No. 144.

W. J. MONTGOMERY, Agt.

We offer in our gents' furnishing department for this week three special bargains. A gents' unlined linen suit, richly decorated, worth 25c, each, 10c 3 for 25c. A gents' black cashmere half hose, double heel and toe, worth 25c, for 25c. A gents' double flannel night-shirt, 60 inches long, best quality, worth $1.40 each, for $1.

F. AUERBACH & BRO.

Nadji Perfume
Will make a Democrat or Republican smell sweet; 25 cents per ounce, regular price 50c. Bendley & Hill, Druggists, postoffice corner.

Ask your grocer for Macandray & Co.'s X. M. Tea.

For Over Fifty Years
Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for children's teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

E. Dunscomb, M. D.,
University of New York, 1862.

Specialist.
GLENSWOOD SPRINGS, GARFIELD COUNTY, COLORADO.

PRACTICE LIMITED TO
CANCERS, TUMORS, GOITRE

RADICAL CURE, treatment WITHOUT KNIFE OR CAUSTIC.
Send stamp for literature.

DEMOCRATS SHOULD WORK

Judge Powers Prophecies a Victory If They Will Do So.

CASE OF YOUNG VS. ZANE

Some Facts That Were Overlooked by The Tribune.

Roberts and Caine at Lehi—Full Explanation of the Bounty Matter—Nephi Blade on Church and State—As to the Box Elder Denials—Henderson in Sanpete—Greenwood and Thurman at Santaquin.

To the People of Utah:
It but remains for every Democratic voter to deposit his ballot on election day to assure a splendid triumph to the cause of peace, liberty and safety, for which the Democratic party stands at the threshold of the admission of Utah into the Union as a state.

The honor of Utah and the future happiness of her people depend upon our success. At such a time, in such a crisis, no one should hesitate.

That the Democratic party should succeed, in view of recent events, concerns every man, woman and child in Utah. Victory to that party means peace at home, the elimination of church influence in future political contests; the vindication of the people's honor and their reestablishment in the good opinion of the people of the nation. It will demonstrate her entire fitness to be clothed in her new enfranchisement.

It will bring to the administration of the new state officers in whose ability, experience and integrity the people can have absolute confidence. It will be an honor to the state and a credit to the nation.

To the Democratic party of the nation the people of Utah are indebted, not only for the gift of statehood, but for every measure of legislation tending to their freedom and welfare.

If you, the people, cherish honor and are grateful; if you love justice and have regard for your own and your children's welfare, vote the Democratic ticket. Let each one interested in this cause go to the polls and see that his neighbors friendly to our success do likewise.

To those who contribute to our success will come the consciousness of having aided the party which has stood for the people as the special guardian of their liberty and welfare since the foundation of this free government; the party within whose ranks are contained those whose co-operation we need for the restoration of silver and without whose help such restoration is impossible; which has so legislated as to lift the burdens and relieve from the distress brought upon the country as the bitter fruit and consequence of Republican misrule and extravagance.

You are called to duty and you will perform it as becomes men of courage for the exercise of the measure of liberty, which belongs to free men in a free land, with the love of home and country in your hearts.

The Democratic state committee has received the most encouraging words from all sections of the territory. It believes that a glorious victory will be the reward of those who uphold our standard. It bespeaks earnest work from all Democrats and it fears not the result. Forward, then, to victory.

O. W. POWERS, Chairman.
E. A. MCDANIELS, Secretary.

ROBERTS AND CAINE.

Their Reception at Lehi Was a Very Favorable One.

LEHI, Nov. 3.—A great crowd was out to hear our next governor and congressman, John T. Caine and B. H. Roberts. The party had spoken in Lakeview in the forenoon and drove from there in buggies. The opera house was already packed when the distinguished visitors entered. M. M. Warner, of Provo was the first speaker. He addressed himself to the burning issues of the day in a logical and forcible way, convincing the most prejudiced that the Democratic party had made no mistake in selecting Mr. Warner to represent Utah county in the state senate.

John T. Caine spoke next on the conditions confronting the people of Utah. The near approach of statehood. The responsibilities that attend the change from territorial vassalage to self-government and the policies he would favor in the event of the election as chief executive of the state of Utah. He said that when the members of the constitutional convention signed the constitution which forbids any interference in the affairs of state by any ecclesiastical organization the very member who signed that instrument made a solemn pledge to the world that never again would religious influence be used in Utah, and when the people vote to ratify the constitution on the 5th of November they make the same pledge and they owe it to their country and their church to see that the pledge is kept inviolate. In closing his remarks Mr. Caine promised that if he were elected he would be the governor of the whole people regardless of creed or color, religion or politics working unceasingly for the advancement and prosperity of the whole people.

When the matchless Roberts was introduced he met a storm of applause from all parts of the house. Although seriously indisposed Mr. Roberts delivered a masterly address on individual liberty and the rights of all classes of citizens before the law. In speaking of bounties he said that the chief executive of the state of Utah should not invest money in an industry unless there was money in it. He knew of a gentleman who had been asked to invest his money in a certain industry and the argument used was that the investment would return 30 per cent on the dollar. Mr. Roberts gave an amusing description of the anxiety displayed by the Republican members of the constitutional convention lest the Democrats should succeed in forever prohibiting the payment of bounties in Utah. They would not allow the bounty pup to be killed at one swoop, but allowed the Democrats to cut her tail as she ran at a time so it would not hurt the pup. At the Democratic members of the convention, together with Mr. Varian and a few other Republicans, had made it impossible for such a quorum to be assembled to work upon the prejudices or sympathies of any legislature and burden the people with a debt contracted for the benefit of doubtful enterprises, as has been done in so many of the eastern and southern states, compelling the people to bear a burden beyond their strength or repudiate a part at least of their obligations.

Mr. Roberts then alluded to his connection to the recent occurrences in this territory everybody was on the qui vive. Republicans especially were anxiously listening for something to be said that they could twist into an argument against the Democratic party and Roberts, but they were disappointed. He had no quarrel with the church, but he had no quarrel with the people who were not political office or preferment he would not forego for the sake of the church of Christ. He only claimed the right as an American citizen to be free in all political matters. The Democrats were his enemies to the church, they only asked that the pledge made to the world by the church presidency be respected. He asserted that the only enemies of the church were those who sought to influence the people by using church influence to secure their own ends. This class of people, Mr. Roberts said, were enemies of the church and of the people to their country and their nefarious designs should be defeated.

The meeting was a grand one. Everything was done to make it pleasant. The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers and bunting, for which we are indebted to the Democratic ladies. The Democratic drum corps is also deserving of much credit for contributing to the occasion with music. Mr. H. W. Leach, of the same hall Saturday evening on Populism. Although the nominee of the Populist party for governor, and speaking from the party stand-point, he shielded his first love (the Republican party) as much as he could during the two hours he was speaking. This was so noticeable that we were all laughing at him doing so after the meeting had commenced. His answer was that he used to belong to that party and did not want to say any more against it than he could help. But his attitude toward the party for its financial policies was hard on it as it was, if he had given it a straight and unbiased it would have been a terror.

HENDERSON AT GUNNISON.

A Greater Majority Than That of Last Year Promised.

GUNNISON, Nov. 3.—That old war-horse Judge Henderson, has been in this vicinity since Friday. On the evening of that day he spoke to a crowded house at Mayfield, and yesterday at Fayette. Both of these places are small settlements and heretofore Republican strongholds, but the advent of Henderson in their midst and just prior to him, Judge King, of Provo, it is thought we have them balanced to a point which makes these two places doubtful.

Last night there was a rousing rally in the R. S. hall where Judge Henderson spoke for two and a half hours on the political issues. He commenced by showing up the Democrats of the coming election and said, "there may be votes enough in this room to determine the character of the next United States Senator." A social relationship had developed in this community within the past few months which had brought about endearing ties and which had led to certain agreements which might seem to afford to the people a union of the people to talk politics so that friendship would remain after the election. The gaining of victory should not be seized upon as an opportunity for boasting. Guard the sanctity of the ballot box above all you do.

He then showed in a clear manner the doctrines as enunciated by Jefferson and Hamilton, and in a most happy way made plain the difference between the results of their teachings. Though Jefferson resigned from the cabinet he held the office of vice-president on the ground that he was not a member of the people. The Democratic party took this notion in hands the poorest and laid it down the richest. Agriculture was the basis of wealth. There was no extremely poor man in the territory overbearing till 1861, when the Democratic party lost control. The Republican party had brought the country to a ruinous condition, and turning over what was left to the audacity to say, "Now, Democrats, look what you have done."

The tariff, he said, was a burden, and you can't gain it. He cited China as an example of a country that in 1872, when the Republican party then in power extended to her a blessing by giving her free trade for a year, thus enabling Chicago to recover and start on its feet. The greatest of cities. A synopsis can hardly do justice to his able and talented address. He advised all to seek for the undercurrent and not to be swayed by superficial talk.

He was calm in his delivery, truthful in his statements and was earnest throughout.

John H. Hanson, of Salt Lake, was billed to speak at Mayfield, but on arriving at the Gunnison depot there was no one to receive him (through a misunderstanding doubtless) so he came in just before the judge concluded. He was requested to speak and occupied thirty minutes in a manner which brought down the house.

The "noble three" of Sanpete county were holding forth at Johnson's hall, better known as the "son of a gun" at the same time our meeting was in progress. This was their third visit here, and yet their force isn't felt. But here we will hold a rally Monday night. Local speakers.

The Tribune's editorial denouncing church interference was read at Democratic headquarters Friday night. The near approach of statehood. The responsibilities that attend the change from territorial vassalage to self-government and the policies he would favor in the event of the election as chief executive of the state of Utah. He said that when the members of the constitutional convention signed the constitution which forbids any interference in the affairs of state by any ecclesiastical organization the very member who signed that instrument made a solemn pledge to the world that never again would religious influence be used in Utah, and when the people vote to ratify the constitution on the 5th of November they make the same pledge and they owe it to their country and their church to see that the pledge is kept inviolate. In closing his remarks Mr. Caine promised that if he were elected he would be the governor of the whole people regardless of creed or color, religion or politics working unceasingly for the advancement and prosperity of the whole people.

When the matchless Roberts was introduced he met a storm of applause from all parts of the house. Although seriously indisposed Mr. Roberts delivered a masterly address on individual liberty and the rights of all classes of citizens before the law. In speaking of bounties he said that the chief executive of the state of Utah should not invest money in an industry unless there was money in it. He knew of a gentleman who had been asked to invest his money in a certain industry and the argument used was that the investment would return 30 per cent on the dollar. Mr. Roberts gave an amusing description of the anxiety displayed by the Republican members of the constitutional convention lest the Democrats should succeed in forever prohibiting the payment of bounties in Utah. They would not allow the bounty pup to be killed at one swoop, but allowed the Democrats to cut her tail as she ran at a time so it would not hurt the pup. At the Democratic members of the convention, together with Mr. Varian and a few other Republicans, had made it impossible for such a quorum to be assembled to work upon the prejudices or sympathies of any legislature and burden the people with a debt contracted for the benefit of doubtful enterprises, as has been done in so many of the eastern and southern states, compelling the people to bear a burden beyond their strength or repudiate a part at least of their obligations.

Mr. Roberts then alluded to his connection to the recent occurrences in this territory everybody was on the qui vive. Republicans especially were anxiously listening for something to be said that they could twist into an argument against the Democratic party and Roberts, but they were disappointed. He had no quarrel with the church, but he had no quarrel with the people who were not political office or preferment he would not forego for the sake of the church of Christ. He only claimed the right as an American citizen to be free in all political matters. The Democrats were his enemies to the church, they only asked that the pledge made to the world by the church presidency be respected. He asserted that the only enemies of the church were those who sought to influence the people by using church influence to secure their own ends. This class of people, Mr. Roberts said, were enemies of the church and of the people to their country and their nefarious designs should be defeated.

The meeting was a grand one. Everything was done to make it pleasant. The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers and bunting, for which we are indebted to the Democratic ladies. The Democratic drum corps is also deserving of much credit for contributing to the occasion with music. Mr. H. W. Leach, of the same hall Saturday evening on Populism. Although the nominee of the Populist party for governor, and speaking from the party stand-point, he shielded his first love (the Republican party) as much as he could during the two hours he was speaking. This was so noticeable that we were all laughing at him doing so after the meeting had commenced. His answer was that he used to belong to that party and did not want to say any more against it than he could help. But his attitude toward the party for its financial policies was hard on it as it was, if he had given it a straight and unbiased it would have been a terror.

HENDERSON AT GUNNISON.

A Greater Majority Than That of Last Year Promised.

GUNNISON, Nov. 3.—That old war-horse Judge Henderson, has been in this vicinity since Friday. On the evening of that day he spoke to a crowded house at Mayfield, and yesterday at Fayette. Both of these places are small settlements and heretofore Republican strongholds, but the advent of Henderson in their midst and just prior to him, Judge King, of Provo, it is thought we have them balanced to a point which makes these two places doubtful.

Last night there was a rousing rally in the R. S. hall where Judge Henderson spoke for two and a half hours on the political issues. He commenced by showing up the Democrats of the coming election and said, "there may be votes enough in this room to determine the character of the next United States Senator." A social relationship had developed in this community within the past few months which had brought about endearing ties and which had led to certain agreements which might seem to afford to the people a union of the people to talk politics so that friendship would remain after the election. The gaining of victory should not be seized upon as an opportunity for boasting. Guard the sanctity of the ballot box above all you do.

He then showed in a clear manner the doctrines as enunciated by Jefferson and Hamilton, and in a most happy way made plain the difference between the results of their teachings. Though Jefferson resigned from the cabinet he held the office of vice-president on the ground that he was not a member of the people. The Democratic party took this notion in hands the poorest and laid it down the richest. Agriculture was the basis of wealth. There was no extremely poor man in the territory overbearing till 1861, when the Democratic party lost control. The Republican party had brought the country to a ruinous condition, and turning over what was left to the audacity to say, "Now, Democrats, look what you have done."

The tariff, he said, was a burden, and you can't gain it. He cited China as an example of a country that in 1872, when the Republican party then in power extended to her a blessing by giving her free trade for a year, thus enabling Chicago to recover and start on its feet. The greatest of cities. A synopsis can hardly do justice to his able and talented address. He advised all to seek for the undercurrent and not to be swayed by superficial talk.

He was calm in his delivery, truthful in his statements and was earnest throughout.

John H. Hanson, of Salt Lake, was billed to speak at Mayfield, but on arriving at the Gunnison depot there was no one to receive him (through a misunderstanding doubtless) so he came in just before the judge concluded. He was requested to speak and occupied thirty minutes in a manner which brought down the house.

The "noble three" of Sanpete county were holding forth at Johnson's hall, better known as the "son of a gun" at the same time our meeting was in progress. This was their third visit here, and yet their force isn't felt. But here we will hold a rally Monday night. Local speakers.

The Tribune's editorial denouncing church interference was read at Democratic headquarters Friday night. The near approach of statehood. The responsibilities that attend the change from territorial vassalage to self-government and the policies he would favor in the event of the election as chief executive of the state of Utah. He said that when the members of the constitutional convention signed the constitution which forbids any interference in the affairs of state by any ecclesiastical organization the very member who signed that instrument made a solemn pledge to the world that never again would religious influence be used in Utah, and when the people vote to ratify the constitution on the 5th of November they make the same pledge and they owe it to their country and their church to see that the pledge is kept inviolate. In closing his remarks Mr. Caine promised that if he were elected he would be the governor of the whole people regardless of creed or color, religion or politics working unceasingly for the advancement and prosperity of the whole people.

When the matchless Roberts was introduced he met a storm of applause from all parts of the house. Although seriously indisposed Mr. Roberts delivered a masterly address on individual liberty and the rights of all classes of citizens before the law. In speaking of bounties he said that the chief executive of the state of Utah should not invest money in an industry unless there was money in it. He knew of a gentleman who had been asked to invest his money in a certain industry and the argument used was that the investment would return 30 per cent on the dollar. Mr. Roberts gave an amusing description of the anxiety displayed by the Republican members of the constitutional convention lest the Democrats should succeed in forever prohibiting the payment of bounties in Utah. They would not allow the bounty pup to be killed at one swoop, but allowed the Democrats to cut her tail as she ran at a time so it would not hurt the pup. At the Democratic members of the convention, together with Mr. Varian and a few other Republicans, had made it impossible for such a quorum to be assembled to work upon the prejudices or sympathies of any legislature and burden the people with a debt contracted for the benefit of doubtful enterprises, as has been done in so many of the eastern and southern states, compelling the people to bear a burden beyond their strength or repudiate a part at least of their obligations.

Mr. Roberts then alluded to his connection to the recent occurrences in this territory everybody was on the qui vive. Republicans especially were anxiously listening for something to be said that they could twist into an argument against the Democratic party and Roberts, but they were disappointed. He had no quarrel with the church, but he had no quarrel with the people who were not political office or preferment he would not forego for the sake of the church of Christ. He only claimed the right as an American citizen to be free in all political matters. The Democrats were his enemies to the church, they only asked that the pledge made to the world by the church presidency be respected. He asserted that the only enemies of the church were those who sought to influence the people by using church influence to secure their own ends. This class of people, Mr. Roberts said, were enemies of the church and of the people to their country and their nefarious designs should be defeated.

The meeting was a grand one. Everything was done to make it pleasant. The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers and bunting, for which we are indebted to the Democratic ladies. The Democratic drum corps is also deserving of much credit for contributing to the occasion with music. Mr. H. W. Leach, of the same hall Saturday evening on Populism. Although the nominee of the Populist party for governor, and speaking from the party stand-point, he shielded his first love (the Republican party) as much as he could during the two hours he was speaking. This was so noticeable that we were all laughing at him doing so after the meeting had commenced. His answer was that he used to belong to that party and did not want to say any more against it than he could help. But his attitude toward the party for its financial policies was hard on it as it was, if he had given it a straight and unbiased it would have been a terror.

HENDERSON AT GUNNISON.

A Greater Majority Than That of Last Year Promised.

GUNNISON, Nov. 3.—That old war-horse Judge Henderson, has been in this vicinity since Friday. On the evening of that day he spoke to a crowded house at Mayfield, and yesterday at Fayette. Both of these places are small settlements and heretofore Republican strongholds, but the advent of Henderson in their midst and just prior to him, Judge King, of Provo, it is thought we have them balanced to a point which makes these two places doubtful.

Last night there was a rousing rally in the R. S. hall where Judge Henderson spoke for two and a half hours on the political issues. He commenced by showing up the Democrats of the coming election and said, "there may be votes enough in this room to determine the character of the next United States Senator." A social relationship had developed in this community within the past few months which had brought about endearing ties and which had led to certain agreements which might seem to afford to the people a union of the people to talk politics so that friendship would remain after the election. The gaining of victory should not be seized upon as an opportunity for boasting. Guard the sanctity of the ballot box above all you do.

He then showed in a clear manner the doctrines as enunciated by Jefferson and Hamilton, and in a most happy way made plain the difference between the results of their teachings. Though Jefferson resigned from the cabinet he held the office of vice-president on the ground that he was not a member of the people. The Democratic party took this notion in hands the poorest and laid it down the richest. Agriculture was the basis of wealth. There was no extremely poor man in the territory overbearing till 1861, when the Democratic party lost control. The Republican party had brought the country to a ruinous condition, and turning over what was left to the audacity to say, "Now, Democrats, look what you have done."

The tariff, he said, was a burden, and you can't gain it. He cited China as an example of a country that in 1872, when the Republican party then in power extended to her a blessing by giving her free trade for a year, thus enabling Chicago to recover and start on its feet. The greatest of cities. A synopsis can hardly do justice to his able and talented address. He advised all to seek for the undercurrent and not to be swayed by superficial talk.

He was calm in his delivery, truthful in his statements and was earnest throughout.

John H. Hanson, of Salt Lake, was billed to speak at Mayfield, but on arriving at the Gunnison depot there was no one to receive him (through a misunderstanding doubtless) so he came in just before the judge concluded. He was requested to speak and occupied thirty minutes in a manner which brought down the house.

The "noble three" of Sanpete county were holding forth at Johnson's hall, better known as the "son of a gun" at the same time our meeting was in progress. This was their third visit here, and yet their force isn't felt. But here we will hold a rally Monday night. Local speakers.

The Tribune's editorial denouncing church interference was read at Democratic headquarters Friday night. The near approach of statehood. The responsibilities that attend the change from territorial vassalage to self-government and the policies he would favor in the event of the election as chief executive of the state of Utah. He said that when the members of the constitutional convention signed the constitution which forbids any interference in the affairs of state by any ecclesiastical organization the very member who signed that instrument made a solemn pledge to the world that never again would religious influence be used in Utah, and when the people vote to ratify the constitution on the 5th of November they make the same pledge and they owe it to their country and their church to see that the pledge is kept inviolate. In closing his remarks Mr. Caine promised that if he were elected he would be the governor of the whole people regardless of creed or color, religion or politics working unceasingly for the advancement and prosperity of the whole people.

When the matchless Roberts was introduced he met a storm of applause from all parts of the house. Although seriously indisposed Mr. Roberts delivered a masterly address on individual liberty and the rights of all classes of citizens before the law. In speaking of bounties he said that the chief executive of the state of Utah should not invest money in an industry unless there was money in it. He knew of a gentleman who had been asked to invest his money in a certain industry and the argument used was that the investment would return 30 per cent on the dollar. Mr. Roberts gave an amusing description of the anxiety displayed by the Republican members of the constitutional convention lest the Democrats should succeed in forever prohibiting the payment of bounties in Utah. They would not allow the bounty pup to be killed at one swoop, but allowed the Democrats to cut her tail as she ran at a time so it would not hurt the pup. At the Democratic members of the convention, together with Mr. Varian and a few other Republicans, had made it impossible for such a quorum to be assembled to work upon the prejudices or sympathies of any legislature and burden the people with a debt contracted for the benefit of doubtful enterprises, as has been done in so many of the eastern and southern states, compelling the people to bear a burden beyond their strength or repudiate a part at least of their obligations.

Mr. Roberts then alluded to his connection to the recent occurrences in this territory everybody was on the qui vive. Republicans especially were anxiously listening for something to be said that they could twist into an argument against the Democratic party and Roberts, but they were disappointed. He had no quarrel with the church, but he had no quarrel with the people who were not political office or preferment he would not forego for the sake of the church of Christ. He only claimed the right as an American citizen to be free in all political matters. The Democrats were his enemies to the church, they only asked that the pledge made to the world by the church presidency be respected. He asserted that the only enemies of the church were those who sought to influence the people by using church influence to secure their own ends. This class of people, Mr. Roberts said, were enemies of the church and of the people to their country and their nefarious designs should be defeated.

The meeting was a grand one. Everything was done to make it pleasant. The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers and bunting, for which we are indebted to the Democratic ladies. The Democratic drum corps is also deserving of much credit for contributing to the occasion with music. Mr. H. W. Leach, of the same hall Saturday evening on Populism. Although the nominee of the Populist party for governor, and speaking from the party stand-point, he shielded his first love (the Republican party) as much as he could during the two hours he was speaking. This was so noticeable that we were all laughing at him doing so after the meeting had commenced. His answer was that he used to belong to that party and did not want to say any more against it than he could help. But his attitude toward the party for its financial policies was hard on it as it was, if he had given it a straight and unbiased it would have been a terror.

HENDERSON AT GUNNISON.

A Greater Majority Than That of Last Year Promised.

GUNNISON, Nov. 3.—That old war-horse Judge Henderson, has been in this vicinity since Friday. On the evening of that day he spoke to a crowded house at Mayfield, and yesterday at Fayette. Both of these places are small settlements and heretofore Republican strongholds, but the advent of Henderson in their midst and just prior to him, Judge King, of Provo, it is thought we have them balanced to a point which makes these two places doubtful.

Last night there was a rousing rally in the R. S. hall where Judge Henderson spoke for two and a half hours on the political issues. He commenced by showing up the Democrats of the coming election and said, "there may be votes enough in this room to determine the character of the next United States Senator." A social relationship had developed in this community within the past few months which had brought about endearing ties and which had led to certain agreements which might seem to afford to the people a union of the people to talk politics so that friendship would remain after the election. The gaining of victory should not be seized upon as an opportunity for boasting. Guard the sanctity of the ballot box above all you do.

He then showed in a clear manner the doctrines as enunciated by Jefferson and Hamilton, and in a most happy way made plain the difference between the results of their teachings. Though Jefferson resigned from the cabinet he held the office of vice-president on the ground that he was not a member of the people. The Democratic party took this notion in hands the poorest and laid it down the richest. Agriculture was the basis of wealth. There was no extremely poor man in the territory overbearing till 1861, when the Democratic party lost control. The Republican party had brought the country to a ruinous condition, and turning over what was left to the audacity to say, "Now, Democrats, look what you have done."

Weight, the school teacher, of wisdom, and tell him that he wanted him and all the members of the seven-enties quorum of Portage to vote against Roberts? Most of the Portage voters belong to the quorum, and it is alleged by good authority that President Hoskins made an attempt to get them to vote against their president, J. H. Roberts, because he was in disfavor.

As for the denial of Bishop Abram Zundel, the people of Willard can no doubt substantiate what they sent to The Herald from that place in relation to him.

George Q. Cannon is a creator of sensations up in this neck of the woods. His coming out after the anti-philic denial and now acknowledging that he did attack Judge Powers from the Brigham pulpit created almost as big a sensation in Brigham today as did his denial of yesterday. Yet there were a shrewd people at that meeting, every honest one of whom could not but bear witness against him; so, in the face of this, President Cannon, sooner or later, could do nothing else but retract his sensational denial.

The Democrats hereabouts feel quite as jovial now as they did depressed over the fling at their party. They feel that the timely wiping of the mud of this matter will redound to their favor.

Democrats at Santaquin.

SANTAQUIN, Nov. 3.—At a Democratic meeting held here last evening the house was full and running over. The Democratic drum corps and Santaquin silver band were in attendance. Alma Greenwood, nominee for state treasurer, spoke for over two hours and made many telling points, for mainly speech was a great contrast to the song and dance scene given here by the "big three." Hon. S. R. Thurman made a strong speech in favor of the Democratic party, and after the usual plaudits showed that the audience was in sympathy with him.

HOT SHOT FROM JOHNSON.

The Democratic War Horse Replies to a Republican Invitation.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I have just received a type written letter addressed to me and signed by one E. G. Rogerson, as chairman of the Fourth precinct Republican committee, informing me that I had been appointed to a Republican Republican safety committee and asking me whether or not I will serve and making several charges against the Democratic party which I have been a humble member of for many years.

In answer to this letter I desire to say through your paper; I can hardly imagine how a man of capacity to frame such a letter, could possibly be so ignorant as to address such a letter to me, and hence must look upon it as a joke, or an intentional insult.